Seniors Citizens and Social Media

For we, Senior Citizens, Social media have evolved into a vital instrument, serving as a powerful tool to learn, acquire knowledge, and for personal growth. Far from being used by younger generations, platforms like WhatsApp, Facebook, YouTube, and Instagram have become essential to help us to engage, combat isolation, boost well being, and maintain an active engagement with the world around and happenings in every day life.

Different social media platforms offer unique ways for seniors to interact, learn, stay connected and entertained. Even at this age, we can learn art, science, music, literature, what not, even cookery, gardening, yoga, dance and other unknown things we have forgotten or omitted to pursue during our younger days.

Let me start with the story of our member Dr. Muraleedharan Karayadath from Wayanad District who have acquired MBBS Degree from Uzbekistan after his retirement. He was honoured at our Annual General Conference for his unique achievement.

WhatsApp

We, seniors spend hours together browsing messages, images and videos on WhatsApp. From early morning to midnight, we put on our mobile phones to see the messages that are cropped in. It is interesting that we stay active and connected to our friends and relatives besides updating our knowledge on various things and happenings around us. By joining in multiple groups, unwanted messages, images or videos may spoil our time, it is desirable to keep away from such unwanted groups also judiciously use your mobile phone storage to save your valuable time. It is also desirable not to forward messages or videos to your friends without knowing its contents that may violate the community guidelines that may be detrimental in many ways.

Facebook

This remains the most popular platform some of us. It is highly valued for its ability to connect with long-lost friends, share life milestones, and engage with family members through photos and videos. Many users appreciate its straight forward interface, which facilitates daily updates and community discussions. However there are many unworthy profiles that may misguide you, so be very cautious to follow or accept friend requests from unknown persons to safeguard your interests. There are many messages by business houses offering products, which are fake and never buy anything from those sites. You can purchase any product from trusted sites like Amazon, Flipkart, Myntra etc., which provide for return facility to avoid the risk of losing money.

Instagram

It is widely used for sharing and viewing photos and videos, providing a visual way to stay involved with the lives of loved ones. Pinterest serves as a creative hub where seniors can explore interests like crafts, recipes, gardening and home decorating.

YouTube

It has emerged as a preferred tool for entertainment and lifelong learning. It functions as an accessible search engine for visual learners, offering free tutorials on everything from art, music, cooking, yoga to technology and history, allowing seniors to explore hobbies at their own pace. There are many YouTube videos help everyone to learn anything under the Sun without involving any cost.

Artificial Intelligence

Many of us encounter the use of Artificial intelligence in every aspect of our life. We do not know what will happen to us, if the use of AI penetrate in to everything in our life at a speed equal to the velocity of light. We have seen motor vehicles plying without drivers, trains run without loco pilots and even, flights are operated by auto pilots.

What is the future of AI in the days to come? Of course we have to learn a lot more than what we know and update our knowledge in tune with the present day happenings. We were searching on Google for anything and everything till recently, and now we have chat bots such as ChatGPT, Google Gemini, Perplexity AI, Claude, DeepSeek, Copilot etc., to ease our thirst for acquiring knowledge, besides help us to create or enhance our capabilities. Let us experience its capabilities to create and explore its possibilities.

Other digital platforms

We are all having large Smart TVs in our homes. It is a wonderful experience to see videos on various news channels, movies, serials, sports etc. There are multiple channels like Prime Video, Netflix, Hotstar etc., which will enhance our entertainment through movies and beyond. We have lived without internet, computer, telephone or even a television in our school days. It is interesting to see the high quality videos in 8k or beyond on our TV, the places of various countries. We will never get an opportunity to visit those places in our life time. Keeping ourselves engaged in viewing programmes on TV is considered as engaging ourselves from isolation or restricting us from sleeping during day time.

Studies have proved that seniors engaged in reading and viewing TV are less prone to Alzheimer's in their retirement days, provided they remain active in between. Platforms like X (formerly Twitter) are also used by some of us to follow journalists, news outlets, and current events, ensuring they stay informed about current events.

Benefits Beyond Socialisation

The impact of these platforms extends well into the realms of mental and physical well-being. Regular engagement on social media has been linked to improved cognitive functioning; learning to navigate these platforms helps stimulate our brain and contributes to a "technological reserve". Furthermore, these tools serve as a lifeline against loneliness, enabling us to maintain social ties and feel a stronger sense of belonging, which is essential for physical and mental health.

Additionally, social media empowers seniors to become self-advocates. By accessing information on health topics and connecting with experts or peers, older adults can feel more confident in making decisions regarding their medical care and community interests, also require a vigil on fake videos that may land up in trouble.

Prioritising Safety and Literacy

While the opportunities for connection are vast, navigating the digital world requires diligence regarding privacy and security. Common concerns for seniors include phishing scams and the risk of sharing personal information, mobile phone hacking, loss of money through clicking links or sharing one time password, without knowing what is happening. By keeping the apps in your phone to the minimum, you can ensure a safe experience. Experts recommend:-

Implementing security measures: Using multi-factor authentication (also known as three-factor such as biometric, pattern or Face id) adds a critical layer of protection against unauthorised access to your mobile phones.

Managing privacy settings: Seniors should be encouraged to adjust their privacy settings on every platform so that only trusted friends or connections can view their profiles, besides locking the screen sharing options available in Android and iPhones. Blocking of unwanted calls or messages from unknown destinations will also help you to stay away from fraudsters.

Seeking education: Many retirement communities and organisations offer workshops or "hands-on" classes where seniors can learn to navigate new technology at their own pace, effectively reducing the intimidation factor often associated with new digital interfaces. We, as a responsible Association intend to conduct workshops to educate you and will guide you to be guarded against such cyber threats for your well being.

At the same time, limiting or balancing your screen time with your mobile phone, laptop or television will enable you to have more in-person interactions with your family members. Approaching the digital landscape with both curiosity and caution, senior citizens can harness these platforms to remain empowered, connected, and engaged members of society, to enjoy the fruits of present day technology revolution.

Multi-Year Medclaim Policy B Card introduced

From the current financial year onwards, SBI has introduced a Physical Multi-Year Medclaim Card for members covered under the SBI Health Assist Policy (Policy 'B').

You can use this single physical medclaim card for future years also. No need for a new card annually. The card remains valid as long as you renew the policy B in time each year.

If you so desire, updated soft copies of the yearly health card and policy details are still be available through digital channels such as WhatsApp chatbot, welcome emails, and renewal communications.

This initiative removes the need to track or download new cards every year, guarantees availability of a valid card during medical emergencies, and avoids confusion about the applicable policy year. In short, the multi-year card will remain sufficient for future years too, provided Policy 'B' is renewed on time.

Please scan the QR code to download the user-friendly WhatsApp tool. It provides E-Card download and many other services.
